CORPORAL HOLES NOW HERE

Work of Recruiting Being Carried on By Army Officer—Austrian Gives Up Revolver and Shells to Police in Response to Notice ...

Among the first to enlist in the army from Charleroi, through the agency of Corporal John F. Holes, who is now here, is Almerj Dunlick, an Austrian by birth, and an American by naturalization and preference. Dunlick had no statement to make. Saturday by Corporal Holes at the postoffice, which now is his recruiting office. He was sent to Pittsburg, where he was accepted for service. Dundick had no statement to make. Though an Austrian he was anxious to take up his gun in the defense of Uncle Sam, even if that meant fighting the people of his native land.

Corporal Holes, who ordinarily is located in Washington, will be here until Thursday to receive men for enlistment in the army He authorized the statement that at the present time men enlisting will be held only during the war period. The enlistment of colored men for the cavalry and infantry has been authorized by the war department. The age limit has been raised to 40 years and those under that age will be accepted. It is not necessary that men be able to read and write to enable them to enlist.

In response to the order issued last week by Attorney General Gregory that all alien enemies surrender guns or other war property to the chief of police, Mathias Wmazanetz, an Austrian, appeared Saturday at the police station and gave over a revolver and shells to Chief of Police C W. Albright. He said he had read the public notice in the Mail and that being worried, he felt he should give up his weapons. Careful record was taken so that after peace is declared the property may be returned to him if then it is deemed advisable by the war department. He is the first and likewise the last to so report to the police.

RACE DRIVER IS RELEASED

Fred Jamison Let go on His Own Recognizance in Death of Wolf

DETECTIVE INVESTIGATES

That Fred Jamison would be exonerated from blame for the death of Frank M. Wolf at the Arden fair grounds last Friday evening by his report of the facts he had discovered in an investigation into the tragic occurrence, was the statement made Saturday by Special Officer F. H. Mitchell. who hurried to the scene and made a thorough probe into the affair.

Following Officer Mitchell's statement and a more detailed report to court officials, Mr. Jamison was released on his own recognizance. He will appear at the inquest, the time for which will be set probably today by Coroner James Heffran.

Officer Mitchell said that the story told by Jamison when he gave himself up after Mr. Wolf died was substantiated by his findings. That the two men quarreled, there is no doubt. But he found that Mr. Wolf drew the knife and that the knife never was in the possession of Mr. Jamison. In the scuffle, Officer Mitchell said, that following Mr. Wolf's attempt to cut Mr. Jamison, Mr. Wolf fell and was cut by his own knife. Mr. Jamison at the time had no knife in his possession except a small one that he carried on a watch chain. The evidence gathered showed that Mr. Wolf fell into a crouching position.

The fimeral of Mr. Wolf will be held this afternoon at 2 o'cdlock at the Third United Presbyterian church, at Washington. The interment will be in the Washington cemetery.

A Bazaar will be held in St. Jerome Lyceum April 23, 24 and 25 under the auspices of the L. C. B. A. 254-tf

NO INTENTION ON PART OF THE UNITED STATES TO STOP NOW

Plans for Successfully Carrying on War With Germany Being Carried Out

ARRANGING THE FOOD SUPPLY

Believed Government Will Control Prices—Charleroi Banks to Aid in Floating Seven Billion Loan—Bill Passed By Congress

That there will be no stoppage now in the effort to stamp out Prussianism and that the war in which America has engaged will be carried forth to the end, is the news today that emanated from Washington. It came in response to the report that German sympathizers had been active in spreading peace propaganda, seeking to hold up immediate action of America.

One of the biggest things is that of the food supply, as brought out by President Wilson in a proclamation made public today. He says that upon the farmers of this country in large measure rests the fate of this war in which the United States has engaged, and the fate of the nations. He places a burden upon every citizens.

Congress on Saturday passed the $7,000,000,000 bond issue bill designed to finance the presecution of the war against Germany and to make a loan of $3,000,000,000 for the allies. Today plans for carrying out details are being made, and practically every bank of the nation, including the three Charleroi banks are [illegible] banking service is being offered [illegible] a patriotic duty.

[illegible] there is still further talk of the food supply being conserved by the prohibition during the war period of liquor manufacture. It is expected as a matter of course that this week the government will take some steps to relieve the present food situation, which is becoming acute. It is believed the government will take a hand in the establishment of prices as means of savng the people from suffering which otherwise would be inevitable.

At Carney's Point, Delaware, today a fire believed to have been of incendiary origin occurred at the Dupont powder factory. Considerable damage was done.

FAYETTE CITY BREADLESS BUT NOT BISCUITLESS ON SUNDAY

Staff of Life Supply is Exhausted Early Saturday Evening and Town Has to Worry Along Without

Fayette City found itself on the bread line, with no bread available Sunday. Hastily baked biscuits had to answer.

Following the trend Fayette City people have given themselves over to the baker. Within the last two weeks on account of the high prices of flour they have taken to buying their bread from stores and bakeries. This was all well until Saturday night at 9 o'clock when the discovery was made that the town's bread supply was exhausted. The town was unprepared for the emergency, but managed to weather it by the biscuit route.

COMPANY A WILL LOSE SOME MEN

By Late Instructions Capt. Hartland Must Release Married Men

WILL LEAVE COMMAND AT ONCE

Captain E. W. Hartland of Company A, Mononghela has received the following order from Col. Richard Coulter, commanding the Tenth Regiment, at Greensburg:

"Note copy of telegram from the Adjutant General.

"The War Department this date authorizes recruitment of National Guard organizations to maximum peace strength of regular army. For infantry each lettered company one hundred men, for headquarters company figty-eight men, for machine gun company fifty-three men, for supply company thirty-seven men, for regimental infirmary twenty-one men. Advice immediately commanding officers your regiment. No man should be enlisted who has dependent family or dependent mother. Enlistments to between eighteen and forty-five. Strict medical examination to be made of each person recruit. Enlistment paper and report of physical examination each recruit to be sent to Adjutant General, Harrisburg, Pa. Orders from War Department direct discharge of enlisted men now in service who have dependent family or dependent mother., etc.

Thomas J. Stewart.
Adjutant General."
Richard Coulter,
Colonel.

The order will cause no material change in Company A. The local organization has considerable more men than the prescribed 100 and after all married men and those with dependent families have been discharged the company would have exactly 100 men. This is not counting the forty or more recruits that have been secured since the present trouble arose If the local company is called for service it will likely be ordered to recruit to war strength, or 150 men. so no material change in the personnel of the local company is expected. Captain Hartland will now proceed to discharge his married men and those with dependent families

TEACHERS' INSTITUTES

Teachers' institutes have outlived their usefulness, in the opinion of a former state normal school chief, who directs a strong attack at them. Lively interest centers in his statements, which may be the means of bringing about a change of conditions.

Essentially the argument against the teachers' institutes at the present time is their high cost. The teachers are paid for each day they attend an institute and attendance at all sessions nets a teacher $15. According to estimate if the institutes were abolished, the state will make a saving for the two years between appropriations of about $1,291,000. It is an amount worth considering.

Whether the institutes are beneficial or not and whether they reflect their beneficial results upon the schools at large is for the experts to say. Probably there is considerable difference of opinion. Undoubtedly there are arguments on both sides.

The object of the institute is to instruct teachers in the latest modes of teaching—to keep them up-to-date. To hold them has been regarded as a matter of progress.

Perhaps there is a means by which the advantages of the institute can be retained and the disadvantages done away with. Home institutes for instance, where expenses would be lighter—for the country schools a community group could join—might be one solution. Practically the same instruction could be given. Probably some of the entertaining features might be lacking in the way of lyceum attractions, but the time could not be filled in beneficially in the way of opinion called for. Magazines and newspapers nowadays play more of an important part than ever in the education of the nation. Trade publications will help teachers the same that they help the store dealers.

There is no desire to tear down the system of education if it is good. The object continually is to improve. If this can be accomplished without the present-day institutes by arranging differently, it should be done. At any rate the subject is one worth studying.

WHAT OTHERS THINK

SHEEP WILL DOT THE HILLS

Washington county is going back into the sheep-raising industry. Years ago it was the first county in the United States in the production of wool and mutton. Now only a few thousand sheep remain. The reason is well known. Dogs replaced sheep in that great rolling county.

The hills of Washington county, like those of Lawrence county, are peculiarly adapted to sheep raising, and now that mutton is bringing $14.50 per hundredweight and wool is selling for 60 cents per pound, the former owners of flocks down there propose to demand protection and resume a great and profitable industry.

If dogs threatened to drive out the steel industry of New Castle we would waste no time in finding a way to get rid of the dogs. They have driven an industry out of Lawrence county that should be adding a quarter of a million dollars to the wealth of our citizens each year.

Washington county is determined to rid boundaries of useless dogs. It should be the simplest of tasks. But we can't do it if we go home and renew our vow to protect Fido down to our last dollar.—New Castle News.

BACKYARD GARDENS

Now is the time to talk backyard gardens and arouse in everyone who is master of a plot of any dimensions a desire to be a tiller of the soil. In many of the suburbs the idea of the vacant lot and backyard garden has been taken up with avidity, and meetings are being held at which experts on gardening make addresses, and lovers of flowers discourse on their hobby. All these activities tend to stimulate listeners and will result in a majority of the backyards producing something for the table of the owner.

The home farmer has became a factor in American affairs and he can and will be a greater one if he but takes advantage of what is at his disposal. Intensified cultivation can place at the disposal of the cook a large quantity of vegetables and at prices being charged and likely to last for some time, this will mean a great saving to the provider.—Passaic (N. J.) Herald.

PICKED UP IN PASSING

Danny Clements was captain of a schooner that plied between New York and Haverstraw. One day his craft was loaded with brick, ready to start for New York, but Danny gave no sign of any intention to get under way. Instead he sat on deck smoking a pipe.

The owner of the brickyard, also owner of the schooneer, who had reasons for wishing the brick in New York at the earliest possibe moment came hurrying on board and demanded to know why Danny didn't sail.

"There's no wind," said Danny.

"No wind! What's the matter with you? There's Morgan's schooner under sail going down the river now."

"Yis, I've been watchin her, but it's no use my gettin' under way," replied Danny. "She's got the wind now, and to me mind, there ain't enough of it for two."

The man who had made a huge fortune was speaking a few words to a number of students at a balance class. Of course, the main theme of his address was himself.

"All my success in life, all my tremendous financial prestige," he said proudly, "I owe to one thing alone—pluck, pluck, pluck."

He made an impressive pause here but the effect was ruined by one student, who asked impressively: "Yes, but how are we to find the right people to pluck."

INJURED FEW MONTHS AGO BY TRAIN, AMWELL MAN COMMITS SUICIDE

Demas L. Closser, a native of Amwell township, residing near Baker's Station, took his own life Saturday by hanging himself. The lifeless body was found hanging to a joist in the stable, by his little granddaughter, Zelma Locy, who had gone to call her grandfather to breakfast. Members of the family were quickly notified, and cut down the body, but life was extinct. The body was still warm, and he had evidently been dead but a short time. Despondency is believed to have prompted the deed.

Mr. Closser was seriously injured the latter part of last November when struck by a passenger train on the Waynesburg and Washington railroad. At that time he was brought to the Washington hospital, where for two or three weeks his life hung in a balance. Since that time Mr. Closser has appeared morose.

He was a native of Amwell township, wher he was engaged several years at farming, owning a piece of land a little north of the village of Amity. In later years he removed to Baker's station, where he had since resided, being engaged as a section hand on the W. & W. railroad for many years. Besides Mrs. Closser, three children survive: George L. Closser, of Washington; Mrs. Mack Miller, of Amity, and Mrs. Harry Locy, of near Lone Pine.

AVERT A DISASTROUS FIRE AT BEALLSVILLE

Discovery Sunday in the "nick of time" of a fire in the general store of Levi C. Noble, where the postoffice is also located, prevented what would have been a disastrous blaze at Beallsville. John Porter of West Brownsville, who was visiting there and his cousin, William Anderson, were walking along Main street near the Noble store when their attention was drawn by cracking glass. Porter first heard the noise and investigated. He found a fire just starting in the Noble establishment. They broke in a window and attracted the attention of others, forming a bucket brigade that soon drowned out the flames. Had the fire gained any headway whatsoever, an entire block of business places andd residences would probably have been burned to the ground. The town has no fire equipment.

STRUCTURE OF THE EYE.

Why We See Better In a Moderate Than In a Glaring Light.

An observant chauffeur, passing an automobile with glaring headlights, noted that objects at the side of the road which had been distinctly visible dropped out of sight when the bright lights were thrown upon them. Since one can see better in a little light than in no light, he wondered, why can one not see better in bright light than in moderate light?

The answer is, paradoxically, that the less light there is the better one sees, for the brighter the object the less efficient is the eyesight. If, after we have been in darkness, we suddenly turn on a bright light and look at our eyes in a mirror we can see the pupil of the eye rapidly growing smaller. If we reduce the light the pupil dilates again. What happens is the same as in the camera when we adjust the shutter to the intensity of the light.

The colored iris of the eye corresponds to the shutter. It consists chiefly of a muscle which, as the light increases, is stimulated to contract, thus drawing the curtain and shutting out some of the superfluous light. It usually takes a few seconds for this adjustment to take place. Thus when we emerge from darkness into light we are blinded until the iris can shut out some of the light from the eyes.

A WHITE HOUSE DINNER.

Dishes President Jefferson Served to His Guests In 1802.

Manasseh Cutler, the founder of the Ohio colony and father of the ordinance of 1787, kept a diary all through his public life, and it is now in the possession of Charles G. Dawes. It contains an account of a dinner at the White House given by President Jefferson Feb. 6, 1802, to which Mr. Cutler and six members of the house were invited.

Mr. Cutler wrote that there was "rice soup, round of beef, turkey, mutton, ham, loin of veal, cutlets of mutton or veal, fried eggs, fried beef, a pie called macaroni, which appears to be a rich crust filled with strillions of onions or shallots, which I took it to be; tasted very strong and not agreeable.

"Mr. Lewis told me there were no onions in it; it was an Italian dish, and what appeared like onions was made of flour and butter with a particularly strong liquor mixed with them. Ice cream, very good; crust wholly dried, crumbled into thin flakes, a dish somewhat like pudding, inside white as milk or curd, very porous and light, covered with cream sauce; very fine.

"Many other jumcracks, a great variety of fruit, plenty of wines and good. President social. We drank tea."—Columbus Dispatch.

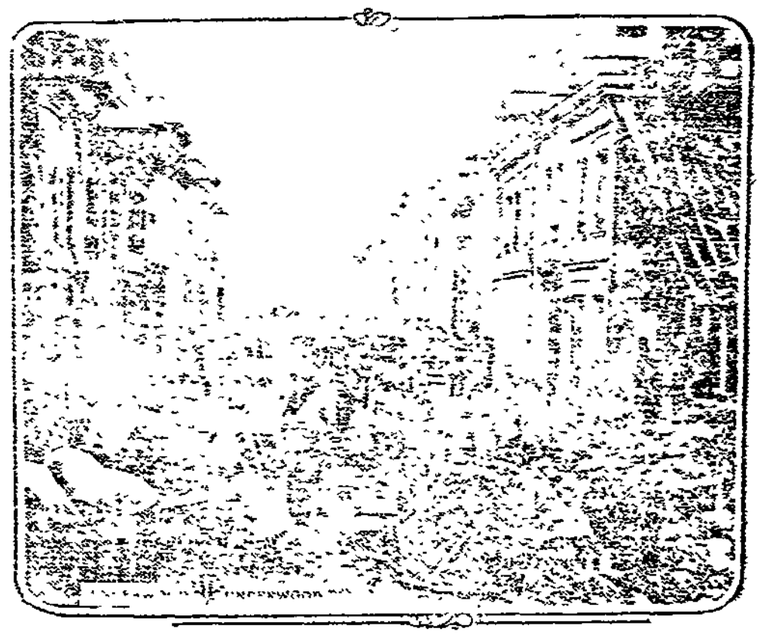
Americans' Physical Development.

While this country may excel in a competition of trained athletes or in certain kinds of mental ingenuity or shrewdness, it is certain that the average man is far from a model of perfect physical development. A casual inspection of the crowds on the streets of any one of our large cities will reveal pale, undernourished and poorly developed youths and pasty, flabby men in large numbers and will convince the open minded observer of the desirability for the individual of some form of regular physical training. That the country bred, moreover, are not greatly superior to those brought up in the city has been the experience of most military men who have had occasion to handle large numbers of troops.—New York Medical Record.

Lieutenant General.

Many of us are puzzled to know why a lieutenant general ranks higher than a major general. Perhaps the explanation is that the titles date back to the commonwealth, when the country was divided into military districts, the less important under the control of a sergeant major general, the rank beyond that of colonel, and the more important being governed by a lieutenant general, the captain general being Cromwell himself. The lapse of time has deleted the sergeant from the sergeant major general.—London Chronicle.

Reconstruction Work Begun in France as Germans Quit Devastated Town



When the retreating German armies, driven by the onrushing French army, evacuated Noyon, the town was laid practically in ruins. Bombs are said to have been exploded in the streets and cannon shot into rows of dwellings and business houses—for military purposes. This photograph shows a street scene in Noyen, but it is typical of towns of the region. It shows the French engineers beginning the work of reconstruction. Soldiers and civilians are engaged in the work of clearing away debris.

AN OPERATION AVERTED

Philadelphia, Pa.—"One year ago I was very sick and I suffered with pains in my side and back until I nearly went crazy. I went to different doctors and they all said I had female trouble and would not get any relief until I would be operated on. I had suffered for four years before this time, but I kept getting worse the more medicine I took. Every month since I was a young girl I had suffered with cramps in my sides at periods and was never regular. I saw your advertisement in the newspaper and the picture of a woman who had been saved from an operation and this picture was impressed on my mind. The doctor had given me only two more days to make up my mind so I sent my husband to the drug store at once for a bottle of Lydia E Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and believe me, I soon noticed a change and when I had finished the third bottle I was cured and never felt better. I grant you the privilege to publish my letter and am only too glad to let other women know of my cure."—Mrs. THOS. McGONIGAL, 3432 Hartville Street, Phila., Pa.

Part of Naval Gun Crew of Torpedoed Aztec, Rescued off French Coast, Returning to U. S.

The American merchantman Aztec, sunk by a German submarine off the French naval port of Brest, was the first armed ship from New York for a European port to meet her fate on the high seas. The Aztec carried beside a full crew twelve gunners of the United States Navy, assigned to her before her departure. These bluejackets were transferred from the S. S. Dolphin only a day or two before the departure of the Aztec. Late reports are to the effect that one of them is among the missing twenty-eight believed to have been lost. The group shown in the accompanying picture is part of the gun crew. They were photographed on their arrival in New York. These men have reached Paris and are now on their way to the United States.

RODGERS ASSIMILATES MUCH PUNISHMENT IN HARD MILL WITH GREB

Al Rodgers of Buffalo, N. Y. waddled into the ring at the Charleroi Boxing club's show at the rink Saturday night and assumilated some of the severest punishment a man ever received in a local ring, without being fazed, then peacefully waddled out, with cheers of the 1,000 fans ringing in his ears. Certainly he was outpointed by the only Harry Greb, but he struck the ten rounds like not another man could

The fight was a great one from many viewpoints. Rodgers waded in not seeming to mind in the least the terrific blows rained up on him by Greb was too shrewd to allow the Buffalo person to connect. One of Rodger's wallops would have meant death to ambition, and the Pittsburger is striving for the top Greb displayed science in dealing with his stocky opponent and in all the hard mill was the aggressor, without landing that blow so many before him have tried to land, the knockout. Creb left the ring not showing many ill effects of the bout. Rodgers took away as marks of the encounter a cauliflower ear, a bursted lip and two swelled eyes.

In the semi final Toni Caponi of Pittsburg and Dad Copsic of Donora lined up. Victory belonged in six rounds to Copsic who outfought the Pittsburger.

Joe Darmarco of Charleroi and Young Ketchell of Donora met in a six round encounter, with the result that Demarco claimed a victory.

In the first and curtain raiser, Young Dillon faced Young Peck. In four rounds Dillon claimed the shade. William Riley of Monessen refereed all bouts and gave universal satisfaction.

To attend the state suffrage conference to be held in Harrisburg, Mrs. H W. Tweed of Charleroi, Mrs. Edwin Linton and Miss C C. Thompson of Washington, prominent suffragists of this county, left for Harrisburg. They will probably be joined by other workers from Washington county. On Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Linton, county chairman, will attend a conference that will precede the opening of the main conference Wednesday morning.

One of the principle questions that will be discussed by the suffragists is what form their service to the government will take in the present war crisis. Frederick C. Howe, commissioner of immigration at the port of New York, will address the suffragists on "After the War, What?" Mrs. Henry Wade Rogers, a suffragist of national note, will speak on "Constructive National Service" Mrs. Mayme Wood will also address the conference on the federal amendment.

On Tuesday morning the state suffrage amendment will be before the house at Harrisburg and the Washington county women as well as the other suffragists will attend the session and use their influences to have it favorably acted upon by the assemblymen.

GARDEN COLUMN

The Mail is conducting this column with the co-operation of the National Emergency Food Garden Commission to inspire the planting of rare food gardens throughout the country. Members of the commission are, Charles Lathrop Pack, president of American Forestry Association; Luther Burbank, Dr Charles W. Eliot; Prof. Irving Fisher; John Hays Hammond; Fairfax Harrison; Myron T. Herrick; Dr John Grier Hibben; Emerson McMillin; A. W Shaw; Carl Vrooman, assistant secretary of agriculture; Capt. J. B. White, U S. Shipping Board; James Wilson, former secretary of agriculture. You should watch this column every day. Any questions should be written on one side of the paper and sent to the Garden Editor of the Mail.

More inquiries reach the National Emergency Food Garden Commission, which is cooperating with this paper in urging garden planting this year, asking about potato growing than relate to any other crop

This is due to the fact that the price of potatoes this spring has reached heretofore unknown heights, continues the bulletin.

It is entirely possible to grow a considerable crop of potatoes in a good-sized back yard, but if potatoes, are grown there will be little room for other crops. In a small garden it is hardly worth while to plant only a few hills of otatoes.

A garden space 50 by 100 feet will produce 12 to 15 bushels of early potatoes with good care, and may do much better than that. Late potatoes produce larger yields than this.

The soil should be thoroughly prepared for potatoes, the finer its grain the better. Potatoes are grown not from seeds but from the tubers themselves. The small "eyes" in the potato which every one has observed, is the embryo sprout waiting only for soil to make it grow.

The cost of potatoes, therefore, makes the seed expensive. But this cost can be offset by the method of planting. Since only the "eye" and a small portion of the tuber's flesh with it need be planted, the body may be eaten after the "eyes" have been cut out from it. These cuttings should be cone shaped to save as much of the potato for use as possible. If the soil is finely worked the "eyes" can be planted singly 1 foot apart, 3 inches deep or shallower, in rows 26 inches apart.

Potatoes for early use should be planted as soon as the danger of killing frosts is over. After the plants are up and frost threatens they should be protected with straw, newspapers, or the like.

When single "eye" cuttings are used, bushels of potatoes will plant a plot 50 by 100 feet. After the cones are cut out they should be spread on paper for two days to dry them before planting.

MORE STRENGTH FOR FEEBLE OLD PEOPLE

If all the old people in Charleroi realized what Vinol will do for them, we would not be able to get enough of it to supply the demand. We quote from a recent letter received from Mrs. A. E. Carson of Kingston, N. Y.

She says: "I am 69 years of age, and had been ailing for a long time with indigestion. I got run-down, was weak, dizzy and could not sleep at night. I consulted two doctors who said I had hardening of the arteries and at my age could not expect to be strong again. My daughter would give me no peace until I tried Vinol, as it had done so much for her. I have taken five bottles and my health and strength have come back so I am able to do all the housework for my family of four, and I am recommending Vinol to all my friends."

The reason Vinol is so beneficial to old people is because it contains the very elements needed to replace declining strength with renewed vigor, viz: beef and cod liver peptones, iron and manganese peptonates, glycophosphates, and a mild tonic wine

LESSONS OF THRIFT.

Learn to Spend Money Only For Things You Really Need.

There are few persons so rich that they do not need to exercise care and forethought in their expenditure. Human needs, human desires, human sympathies, are so vast, occasions of outlay so beset all of us at every step that unless we are watchful we quickly find great resources reduced to nothing, without our knowing how. The speed with which money departs is one of the first lessons of experience to man, woman and child, but we are slow to apply our own experience in our judgment of others.

Every one should be taught from childhood to weigh the needs of expenditure. This I must have, this I can go without, this I greatly want, if other demands still more imperative are not balked by it. By buying this now I can avert the necessity of a double expenditure a year hence. On the other hand, if I refrain from a purchase tempting at the moment I may be glad of my self control, even within a week. Questions like these have to be settled by every human being. Can any training be more important than that which enables us to settle them?

Exactly the same disposition to weigh and to compare must be brought into giving, into charity, if giving is to be discreet and wise and not in the end injurious to giver and receiver both. If we want a useful test for the difficult distinction between avarice and thrift we may say that thrift is more sparing with self than it is with others, whereas avarice pinches others sooner than itself, although it may pinch both.—Youth's Companion.

THE CITY OF QUEENSTOWN.

It Is a Seaport, a Watering Place and a British Naval Station.

Queenstown, numbering slightly more than 8,000 souls, has a threefold distinction—as a seaport, a watering place and a British naval station. It is a well built and attractive place, with a mild climate, and, being built upon an island, its streets rise in terraces one above the other and offer a superb outlook over the neighboring waters.

Within fifty years the place was only a small fishing village and was known as the Cove of Cork. Its present name was received in 1849 by reason of its having been the first spot in Ireland upon which Queen Victoria set foot. It still serves as the port of the city of Cork, from which it is twelve miles distant. Cork itself is located at the point of entry of the river Lee into the bay.

The harbor of Queenstown is splendidly defended by two forts—Carlisle and Camden—at its entrance and by Fort Westmoreland, which is situated upon Spike island, one of the group of three isles which make up the government dockyard and constitute the fine natural breakwater of the harbor, wherein a large fleet can find safe anchorage.

Two years before the queen's visit to the town Spike island was made a convict depot upon the abolishment of the transportation scheme of punishment which had been in vogue, and the convicts sent there were employed upon the fortifications. The island ceased to be a prison in 1885, at which time it was handed over to the military authorities.—National Geographic Society Bulletin.

Positive Jurors.

A prospective juror, being qualified for a murder trial in Illinois, when asked the customary question; "Have you formed or expressed an opinion as to the guilt or innocence of the accused?" rejoined promptly: "Sure. He's as guilty as all get out!" Which resulted in a $10 fine by the outraged court and, of course, the disqualification of that talesman.

There was a murder case that ended right in the middle when counsel, wheedling gently at the jury, remarked, "Of course none of you gentlemen has made up his mind yet as to the guilt or innocence of this defendant." Taking advantage of a rhetorical pause, a lanky juror arose and replied positively: "Well, I have, for one. He ought to be hung!"—Kansas City Star

Where We Get Nux Vomica.

With the exception of Ceylon, which exports a limited quantity of nux vomica, British India is said to supply the world. Nux vomica seeds and pickings are obtained from the plumlike fruits of the tree. The fruit is collected and the seeds washed out and dried in the sun. In the forests of Nellore, where the tree is common, the seeds are washed out by a forest tribe, the Yanadis, and a good price is obtained for them. Cochin nux vomica is collected in the dry deciduous forests at the foot of the Travancore hills and is sold at a low figure to small native dealers, who send it to the merchants

Billy Sunday, Baseball Evangelist, Prepares to Meet Satan in New York

All of the hot shots that Billy Sunday puts over are not vocal. Although he is hardly in trim to pitch for a big league team, he can still "put 'em over the plate." As a part of his training for the big revival he is conducting in New York Billy Sunday returned to baseball, a game at which he once excelled. The accompanying picture shows the evangelist about to deliver a "fadeway" in a game near his home at Winona Lake, Indiana. In this pose Sunday may frequently be seen on the rostrum when he preaches his famous baseball sermon.

SHOD WITH SILENCE.

Big Bull Moose Can Traverse a Thick Forest Without a Sound.

Although taller than an ordinary horse, weighing more than half a ton and adorned with wide spreading antlers, the bull moose stalks with ghostly silence through thickset forests, where man can scarcely move without being betrayed by the loud cracking of dry twigs. In summer it loves low lying, swampy forests interspersed with shallow lakes and sluggish streams. In such places it often wades up to its neck in a lake to feed on succulent water plants and when reaching to the bottom becomes entirely submerged. These visits to the water are sometimes by day, but usually at night, especially during the season when the calves are young and the horns of the bulls are but partly grown

Late in the fall, with full grown antlers, the bulls wander through the forest looking for their mates, at times uttering far reaching calls of defiance to all rivals and occasionally clashing their horns against the saplings in exuberance of masterful vigor. Other bulls at times accept the challenge and hasten to meet the rival for a battle royal. At this season the call of the cow moose quickly attracts the bulls. Hunters take advantage of this and by imitating the call through a birch bark trumpet bring the most aggressive bulls to their doom.—National Geographic Magazine.
